(Direction: Read the passage and select the right answer for the questions 23 to 28)

What should be the objective of life whether money or principles. It is really difficult for a well educated, intellectual or brave person to make money the chief object of his thoughts. No doubt all the healthy people like their dinners, but their dinner is not the main object of their lives. Also, no doubt, all healthy-minded people like to make money, like to have it and enjoy the sensation of having it. But there is something better than money. For instance, doctors no doubt, like fees, yet if they are brave and well educated, the entire object of their lives is not fees. They on the whole, desire to cure the sick; and if they are good doctors and the choice were fairly put to them, would rather cure their patient and lose their fee than kill him and get it. So of a good soldier, who mainly wishes to do his fighting well. He is glad of the pay, though his main notion of life is to win battle, not to be paid for winning them. Similarly, the clergyman's object is essentially to baptize and preach, not to be paid for preaching. This is how it is also true with all the other brave and rightly trained men; their work comes first, the payment later, though very important but secondary.

23. What is the principal object of the lives of brave intellectual and well-educated people?
- A. To make money
 - B. To enjoy
 - C. To work with devotion
 - D. Manage the leisurely objects
24. According to the passage, if a doctor is brave and well educated, and a choice was put to him, what would he choose?
- A Cure the patient and lose his fees
 - B. Kill the patient and get his fees
 - C. Any of these depending on circumstances
 - D. The passage is silent on this
25. A suitable title of the passage may be
- A. Money Making, the Chief Object of Life
 - B. Devotion to Work
 - C. Importance of Thought
 - D. Money, not the Chief Object of Life
26. One may infer from the paragraph that
- A. Brave person like to make money
 - B. Brave persons like to win others
 - C. Brave persons like to work first than their fees
 - D. None of these
27. A person would always rank his work superior to the money if he is
- A. Brave and intellectual
 - B. Well educated
 - C. Rightly trained
 - D. All the above
28. All healthy minded people like
- A. To make money and enjoy the sensation of having it
 - B. To hold their principles supreme in comparison to money

Directions: (Q. No. 31 to 36) you have a brief passage with 6 questions following passage. Read the passage carefully and choose the best answer to each of the questions of the four alternatives given.

'Man is surrounded by culture right from the time of his birth... Culture makes many demands on man through the mechanization of approval and disapproval. Culture influences personality through the process of socialization and social control. Broadly speaking education is the transmission of cultural heritage. It is also the means of social control. In the middle ages cultural education was meant for only certain classes, but today it is open for all. Today culture means acquainting oneself with the best that has been thought and said in the world. The main objective of cultural education is to guard against narrow specialization what is known as liberal education. Certain aspects of culture stand the test of time and merit preservation and promotion; certain other aspects need revision, if not total abolition. Regional imbalances, income inequalities, racial feelings, narrow concepts as they stand today are certainly a stigma on the Indian culture. Hence their abolition is necessary precondition for the promotion of a healthy social order.'

Directions: (Q. No. 37 to 43) You have a brief passage with 7 questions following passage. Read the passage carefully and choose the best answer to each of the questions of the four alternatives given.

Democracy, so long as it is what it is, imperfectly educated, throws a great responsibility on the leaders. The average voter even in educated England has no opinion of his own on many questions. He chooses—his party by tradition or by his agreement with its central aims in those matters on which he has strong views. On other questions he takes his opinions from the leaders. His conscience is clear when the party is chosen and for the rest the leaders decide and the voters obey. In a complex social machine, it is difficult for the units to exercise thought. It is easier to be obedient automata. It does not even pay to think. Perhaps thought may prove costly. If the leaders want to create public opinion, the machinery of the press and the wireless makes it most easy. Modern conditions afford propagandists vastly increased opportunities of promoting collective excitement and setting the world in a conflagration. A few clever and adventurous leaders can excite people's passions and suppress intellectual freedom. In these circumstances, truth does not win as there is no attempt to find out truth.

37. The most suitable title for the given passage would be:

- A. Democracy and public opinion
- B. Democracy and intellectual freedom
- C. The role of leaders in a democracy
- D. The role of voters in a democracy

38. The opening sentence of the passage implies that:

- A. The responsibility of educating a democracy lies with its leaders
- B. Leaders in democracy with imperfectly educated voters have to shoulder great responsibility
- C. A well educated democracy is based on responsible leadership
- D. In democracy with uneducated masses; the leaders are highly duty conscious

39. From the third sentence "He chooses his party by tradition....." we gather that

- A. An English voter selects a party which strongly stands for traditional and popular beliefs
- B. The average voter in England votes for a party because of tradition irrespective of his agreement or disagreement with its basic policies
- C. In England an average voter supports a party either as a practice or because of his agreement with its broad policies
- D. In a democracy one votes for a party with whose objectives and policies he agrees on all matters.

40. "In a complex social machine....." the statement implies that:
- A. It is difficult for an individual to challenge a complicated social machinery
 - B. In a society which works like a machine, an individual cannot be permitted to have his own political ambitions
 - C. In a mechanical age a person cannot have individual aspirations
